

LLOYD WILKEY

Founder and CEO of the Mindful Policing Institute

As a professional trainer, human relations consultant, gang and violence prevention specialist, diversity and equity educator, community organizer, and coach, Lloyd Wilkey leads and facilitates successful initiatives with governmental agencies, law enforcement communities, businesses, nonprofits, school districts and educational institutions.

With a focus on forging alliances and pushing for progress, Lloyd's commitment to public service and community well-being transfers into his development and delivery of effective, customized leadership seminars, police training, and anti-bias education workshops that challenge mindsets, stimulate critical thinking, and provide useful skill development for positive growth and change.

He works with a variety of organizations, communities, and individuals, to help navigate through conflict, problem solve, and develop strong strategic roadmaps for the future.

A recognized expert on community/police relations, Lloyd has a long history of delivering law enforcement training, facilitating community issue dialogues, and engaging in activism to advance justice and his vision for Mindful Policing. His background includes over three decades of study and fieldwork of local, statewide and national policing. He advocates for policies and procedures which can result in transparency, accountability, procedural and restorative justice.

Lloyd believes in the power and promise of our youth. In addition to working to develop stronger workplaces and work cultures, he is also a youth program director, coach, and mentor. He not only builds positive relationships with young people of all backgrounds, but he empowers youth leaders, encourages the strengthening of family ties, and advocates for fair and equitable treatment in schools and institutions. By connecting with the younger generation, he contributes to the reduction of community violence, bullying, crime, truancy, drug abuse, obesity, and other poor health outcomes.

Lloyd is a founding partner of Diverse City Consulting, a valued faculty member of the Simon Wiesenthal Center Museum of Tolerance in Los Angeles, and a National Trainer for the Anti-Defamation League. A student of multiple disciplines, he is a boxer and personal trainer, a security consultant, and an accomplished singer.

ABOUT MPI

The Mindful Policing Institute (MPI) is a think tank and training institute devoted to public safety, crime reduction, restorative, and procedural justice.

HOW WE WORK

MPI works closely with community stakeholders in order to amplify their values and voices. The Institute designs, implements, and advocates for ongoing innovative training needed to make law enforcement effective in the 21st century. It is our belief that when law enforcement effectiveness is enhanced, community confidence is increased. MPI curriculum engages participants in a rigorous learning process which includes difficult dialogue about issues foundational to police culture and legitimacy. Programming offers an opportunity to explore and gain mastery with tools to mitigate the negativity currently being experienced by law enforcement, while increasing awareness, wellness, and performance.
